Supporters and Prayer Partners:

We have been busy the past few weeks. View the list at the left of meeting we have been involved in. The Livesay Correctional Center in Spartanburg has been opened to us. We have also been offered the opportunity to work in the Tabor Correctional, Craggy, and Mountain View Correctional Centers. We praise God for these openings to minister to the inmate population in these units. However our hearts are saddened as we have learned the Cleveland Correctional Center in Shelby is being closed by the state.

Continue to pray as we are still planning the trip to Kenya in mid-October. Brother David Oloo our contact there is excited about us coming. I will be preaching in a pastors' conference in the mornings and in crusade meetings in the afternoons. Another pastor there Paul Ndonga has also contacted us and hopes to meet us when we arrive. We still need financial support to make the trip at this time. We ask that you pray about helping us meet this goal. We hear there are 20,000 adults and 150,000 youth in this region of Kenya. What an awesome opportunity to reach souls in need of a Savior!

August 2009 celebrates nine years of the ministry. God has blessed and taken us in directions we would never have dreamed. We appreciate all your prayers and financial support. Without the support of churches, and others we could not do the work God has called us to do. Even in these trying economic times, God is the same yesterday, today and forever. Thanks again and may God bless you for your support. Visit the website for updates and meetings. Ann tries to get new pictures posted as the events occur. Thanks to Kevin Smith, website designer and Wayne McBryde, owner of McBryde Website Design in Mooresville for their help.

Also we have purchased a multi-media projector to use in the presentation to churches. The total cost with an extended warranty is approximately $700. If you could help with this expense we would be most grateful. God bless each one and remember us in your prayers.

Inside Story Headline

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

“To catch the reader's attention, place an interesting sentence or quote from the story here.”

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the image near the image.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.

Back Page Story Headline

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good place to insert a clip art image or some other graphic.
